In Case You Missed It!

Catch up on our latest Health Professions Educator Series session!

Last month, Dr. Christi Stewart led our Health Professions Educator series on "Teaching Learners How To Deliver Bad News/Engage in Difficult Conversations." While these are incredibly important skills for health professionals, they are often not formally taught and little to no feedback is provided when things go wrong. To learn more about some of the great methods Dr. Stewart shared for preparing your learners to provide bad news or engage in difficult conversations, click here.
